

THE WOMAN WITH A "MISSION" IN LIFE IS USUALLY A NUISANCE

It Often Happens That the Real Victims of Her Misplaced Zeal Are Her Own Friends, Whose Appreciation of the Same Is Doubtful

By ELLEN ADAIR

We are all assured that to have a "mission in life" is a matter of the highest importance and one which every one should cultivate.

In the minds of some people the word "mission" is inevitably intertwined with thoughts of piety, foreign fields and the heathen.

"Yes, I believe in filling every minute of the day," she will tell you in that bright, determined manner which we all dislike so much.

After the war broke out, a certain type of the "woman with a mission" suddenly sprang up all over England and proved a very considerable nuisance.

I know one woman who conducted a house-to-house campaign. She is of a large and very solid build, and would sweep past astonished and protesting servants like a veritable dreadnought.

But this little incident goes to prove that the "woman with a mission" is sometimes quite wrong—and often rather inconsiderate!

ROYAL FAMILY OF ITALY MINGLES FREELY WITH CROWDS IN ROME

Democrat Association of King's Family With Populace at Red Cross Fair Rouses Admiration—Crown Prince Much Liked by All.

By ALICE ROHE

ROMA, Aug. 15.—Democrat, friendly, the royal house of Italy mingles with the mothers and wives and sisters and sweethearts of the men fighting at the front.

The little fellow, with a bright smile on his lips and a frank look in his big brown eyes, was replying to questions put to her of the house were never polite, either. In short, I am afraid she really did more harm than good.

"I have a mission in this house," she would commence, clearing her throat preparatory to battle, "and that mission is to inquire why you, an able-bodied man of sufficiently youthful age, are not serving your King and country at the front?"

Many of the men to whom she spoke were unfit to go to the front. Many had been refused at the War Office on the grounds of ill health or age.

One young girl, a convert of this selfsame woman, was led by her into a most unfortunate experience, but one which, like the fairy tales, ended very happily.

In one house she found a very good-looking staid young man who offered her a glass of wine.

At the end of half an hour the young man rose. "If this room were not so badly lighted you would notice that I have lost my right arm," he said simply.

The girl was dumfounded! She stammered out apologies—and the young man was very kind. He insisted on her staying for afternoon tea, and the acquaintance began to develop.

But this little incident goes to prove that the "woman with a mission" is sometimes quite wrong—and often rather inconsiderate!

Somehow or other, she always managed her point too. Her remarks to the own-

MRS. BLANKENBURG PROPOSED AS MEMBER OF EDUCATION BOARD

Wife of the Mayor Among Women Recommended for Appointment

FIVE POSTS TO BE FILLED

Mrs. Frank Miles Day, Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Grice Urged for Prospective Vacancies

Mrs. Rudolph Blankenburg, wife of the Mayor, has been proposed as a member of the Board of Education to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William T. Tilden.

Mrs. Blankenburg is a suffragist and member of various organizations devoted to civic uplift.

The terms of five members of the board will expire in November, and prominent Philadelphia women have been proposed also to fill these vacancies.

Mrs. Butler is prominent in the affairs of the Civic Club, Mrs. Edwin C. Grice, president of the Home and School League and founder of that organization, has the support of men and women in all walks of life.

Mrs. Stewart, speaking on the question of appointing women to the Board of Education, said:

"There is no reason why an educational administration should be controlled entirely by one sex. If women are capable of training their children in the home, if they have succeeded in raising them until they attain the age of 6 years, why shouldn't they have something to say about their training in the classroom?"

The love of a mother for her child would manifest itself as much in the matter of education as it does in home training.

Appointments of women to the Board of Education isn't so much a matter of fairness to the women. It means justice to the children.

Mrs. Butler is prominent in the affairs of the Civic Club, Mrs. Edwin C. Grice, president of the Home and School League and founder of that organization, has the support of men and women in all walks of life.

Mrs. Stewart, speaking on the question of appointing women to the Board of Education, said:

"There is no reason why an educational administration should be controlled entirely by one sex. If women are capable of training their children in the home, if they have succeeded in raising them until they attain the age of 6 years, why shouldn't they have something to say about their training in the classroom?"

The love of a mother for her child would manifest itself as much in the matter of education as it does in home training.

Appointments of women to the Board of Education isn't so much a matter of fairness to the women. It means justice to the children.

MRS. BLANKENBURG PROPOSED AS MEMBER OF EDUCATION BOARD

Wife of the Mayor Among Women Recommended for Appointment

FIVE POSTS TO BE FILLED

Mrs. Frank Miles Day, Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Grice Urged for Prospective Vacancies

Mrs. Rudolph Blankenburg, wife of the Mayor, has been proposed as a member of the Board of Education to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William T. Tilden.

Mrs. Blankenburg is a suffragist and member of various organizations devoted to civic uplift.

The terms of five members of the board will expire in November, and prominent Philadelphia women have been proposed also to fill these vacancies.

Mrs. Butler is prominent in the affairs of the Civic Club, Mrs. Edwin C. Grice, president of the Home and School League and founder of that organization, has the support of men and women in all walks of life.

Mrs. Stewart, speaking on the question of appointing women to the Board of Education, said:

"There is no reason why an educational administration should be controlled entirely by one sex. If women are capable of training their children in the home, if they have succeeded in raising them until they attain the age of 6 years, why shouldn't they have something to say about their training in the classroom?"

The love of a mother for her child would manifest itself as much in the matter of education as it does in home training.

Appointments of women to the Board of Education isn't so much a matter of fairness to the women. It means justice to the children.

Mrs. Butler is prominent in the affairs of the Civic Club, Mrs. Edwin C. Grice, president of the Home and School League and founder of that organization, has the support of men and women in all walks of life.

Mrs. Stewart, speaking on the question of appointing women to the Board of Education, said:

"There is no reason why an educational administration should be controlled entirely by one sex. If women are capable of training their children in the home, if they have succeeded in raising them until they attain the age of 6 years, why shouldn't they have something to say about their training in the classroom?"

The love of a mother for her child would manifest itself as much in the matter of education as it does in home training.

Appointments of women to the Board of Education isn't so much a matter of fairness to the women. It means justice to the children.

Mrs. Butler is prominent in the affairs of the Civic Club, Mrs. Edwin C. Grice, president of the Home and School League and founder of that organization, has the support of men and women in all walks of life.

Mrs. Stewart, speaking on the question of appointing women to the Board of Education, said:

"There is no reason why an educational administration should be controlled entirely by one sex. If women are capable of training their children in the home, if they have succeeded in raising them until they attain the age of 6 years, why shouldn't they have something to say about their training in the classroom?"

The love of a mother for her child would manifest itself as much in the matter of education as it does in home training.

Appointments of women to the Board of Education isn't so much a matter of fairness to the women. It means justice to the children.

Mrs. Butler is prominent in the affairs of the Civic Club, Mrs. Edwin C. Grice, president of the Home and School League and founder of that organization, has the support of men and women in all walks of life.

Mrs. Stewart, speaking on the question of appointing women to the Board of Education, said:

"There is no reason why an educational administration should be controlled entirely by one sex. If women are capable of training their children in the home, if they have succeeded in raising them until they attain the age of 6 years, why shouldn't they have something to say about their training in the classroom?"

The love of a mother for her child would manifest itself as much in the matter of education as it does in home training.

Appointments of women to the Board of Education isn't so much a matter of fairness to the women. It means justice to the children.

Mrs. Butler is prominent in the affairs of the Civic Club, Mrs. Edwin C. Grice, president of the Home and School League and founder of that organization, has the support of men and women in all walks of life.

Mrs. Stewart, speaking on the question of appointing women to the Board of Education, said:

"There is no reason why an educational administration should be controlled entirely by one sex. If women are capable of training their children in the home, if they have succeeded in raising them until they attain the age of 6 years, why shouldn't they have something to say about their training in the classroom?"

The love of a mother for her child would manifest itself as much in the matter of education as it does in home training.

Appointments of women to the Board of Education isn't so much a matter of fairness to the women. It means justice to the children.

A SNAPSHOT IN THE CHAMPS ELYSEES, PARIS

DENTISTS AND SURGEONS BUILD NEW FACES ON WOUNDED MEN

Americans Do Wonderful Work in Paris—Shot-torn Features Replaced by Plates or Grafted Skin. Noses With Silver Tubes.

By ELLEN ADAIR

PARIS, July 25.—The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

The dental department of the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, Paris, in conjunction with the surgeons, is conducting a wonderful work.

SCHOOL NURSE A NECESSARY ADJUNCT OF HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Has Important Duties in Discovery and Handling Diseases to Which Children Are Subject. Home Visits Especially Valuable.

IN CONJUNCTION with the school doctor, the school nurse has existed as an institution for about eight years and is an important and necessary adjunct to the health department in the schools.

Miss Phila Phelps, of 207 North Cammo street, says that in her experience as a school nurse she has come to realize more and more how necessary this department is for the welfare of the school children.

"I have been engaged as a school nurse for about two years," Miss Phelps said, "and think that this is one of the most important and successful ways of reaching the source of disease and eradicating it from the schools and eventually from the homes."

Children with diseases mingle with the other children, and unless the matter is taken in hand immediately an epidemic starts and spreads.

Eye and nose and throat troubles are also prevalent, sometimes existing without the knowledge of the parents.

Now, it is the doctor's work to discover these conditions in his examination of the children, and the nurse's work to see that the doctor's instructions are carried out.

Each year it becomes easier to have the children and their parents follow out our directions, and, strange to say, we have more success with the foreigners than with the Americans.

Visiting children at homes. "My work lies in the Richmond and Kensington districts and I have six schools in charge."

I visit three schools each day and spend, on an average, two hours in each school, depending on the amount of work there.

Each child is examined at least once a year by the school doctor, and, in case of sickness or attention needed, it is taken into the home of the child and the nurse is terminated.

After the examination by the school doctor I send the child to its family physician, or if there is none such, to a dispensary and watch the case as much as possible.

This takes me into the home of the child and I find this phase of the work interesting and instructive.

I learn of the "stuff" whereof man is made. Some times the reception I get is not altogether cordial.

One day I was called to the home of a mother who was very nervous and I found the child and I find this phase of the work interesting and instructive.

I learn of the "stuff" whereof man is made. Some times the reception I get is not altogether cordial.

One day I was called to the home of a mother who was very nervous and I found the child and I find this phase of the work interesting and instructive.

I learn of the "stuff" whereof man is made. Some times the reception I get is not altogether cordial.

One day I was called to the home of a mother who was very nervous and I found the child and I find this phase of the work interesting and instructive.

I learn of the "stuff" whereof man is made. Some times the reception I get is not altogether cordial.

MISS PHILA PHELPS

In given to the child, signed by the doctor and by the nurse, and the child is taken to City Hall by the nurse, where the necessities are supplied.

"Little Mother" watchful. "On one occasion, as I was taking a group of four or five children to City Hall, I remember one little girl who, when being asked, took charge of two of the younger children, and, leading them, one by one, set out at a good pace."

The motherliness of the child, who was only about nine years old, struck me forcibly. At the street crossings she was very solicitous for the safety of the other children.

Whether better or worse, it is stated. At the end of the month each nurse makes out a report of the cases terminated.

These reports are filed for use when necessary. The work is keenly interesting and is one of the most beneficial and far-reaching forms of good carried on in the city.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY WOMAN PENNILESS, HELD BY POLICE

Columbia, Pa., Authorities Believe Mrs. Ada Corning Atwater Is Demented

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Ada Corning Atwater, one of Washington's ultra-fashionable women, is being detained in Columbia by the police, awaiting the arrival of her son, Penniless, and apparently demented.

She made her debut in Columbia last night, after taking an automobile trip to Reading, registering in the Berkshire Hotel, and remaining in the room there until the chauffeur demanded his money.

She then declared that she was penniless and was brought back to Columbia.

Yachtsmen Protest Against Piers. Yachtsmen of Edgewater by protest vigorously today at the hearing before the Board of Commissioners of Navigation against the building of four piers by the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

The piers will extend out 600 feet if built, and, according to the contention of the yachtsmen, will retard the current through the channel between the Tenth and 11th streets.

There was a decided improvement today in the condition of Mrs. Frank G. Zimmerman, of Philadelphia, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Atlantic City Hospital.

Mrs. Zimmerman, a theatrical manager, became suddenly ill at her summer home in Ocean City, Saturday. A physician, who was summoned, decided that an immediate operation was necessary.

Mrs. Zimmerman was rushed in an automobile to the hospital.

She revived quickly, after the operation, and is now on the way to recovery.

Mr. Zimmerman is general manager of the Keystone Liberty, Orpheum and Fairmount Theatres.

To Cut Thin Cans

Many a young and inexperienced housekeeper has sore and aching fingers in trying to open stubborn sardine or fruit cans.

It is a hard thing to successfully manipulate the strange devices which accompany the cans.

Cut and bleeding hands are too frequently the result, and some people refuse to use the canned goods just on this account.

The newest labor-saving arrangement for kitchen use is a small pair of steel scissors with sharp points.

They may be inserted in any soft tin can, and then you cut around the edges just like you would cut ordinary paper with a pair of ordinary scissors.

They save a great deal of trouble for the busy housekeeper, and sell for 65 cents.

MRS. ZIMMERMAN IMPROVING

Theatre Manager's Wife Recovering From Appendicitis Operation

There was a decided improvement today in the condition of Mrs. Frank G. Zimmerman, of Philadelphia, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Atlantic City Hospital.

Mrs. Zimmerman, a theatrical manager, became suddenly ill at her summer home in Ocean City, Saturday. A physician, who was summoned, decided that an immediate operation was necessary.

Mrs. Zimmerman was rushed in an automobile to the hospital.

BLACK VELVET CHAPEAUX ALL THE RAGE FOR AUTUMN

A NEAT FALL CHAPEAU

The middle of August brings with it an innumerable sales of summer hats. These sell at all kinds of ridiculous prices as compared with the prohibitive figures attached to them earlier in the season.

By the time taken, and going by the signs of the times, so to speak, the wise woman will go cautiously about setting these bargains.

And knowing how unreasonably the seasons are "rushed" nowadays, when women begin to adopt their fall millinery in the middle of August, the fashionable woman looks before she takes the final leap.

NOTES OF KNOWLEDGE

There are 125 exhibits at the British Royal Academy this year.

Paderewski could play the piano when he was 3 years old.

Balloons were used by the French in the war in the 18th century.

TRAYMORE

A Bold Original Creation

Leading High-Class Moderate-Rate Hotel

ALBEMARLE

St. James Hotel

Advertisement for 'The Great White Way' Hyklass White Cream Cleanser. For White Buckskin, Nubuck, White Leather, etc.

Advertisement for Wildwood Inn. Free Bath Houses. J. ALBERT HARRIS.

Advertisement for Wildwood Sanitarium. N. Wildwood, N. J.

Advertisement for New Hotel Baldwin. Ideal modern hotel; capacity 400.

Advertisement for Thomas Clyde Family Excursion Steamer to Augustine Beach. 190 Miles—50 Cents.